IPAV 2022 Pre-Budget Submission

IPAV's 2022 Pre-Budget Submission, produced by economist Jim Power, was recently circulated to Government officials and IPAV members. Thank you to members who reached out with comments and ideas and it was also great to hear our submission be discussed on the Pat Kenny Show last Tuesday, and feature so prominently in the Irish Times. IPAV sincerely hope a number of its recommendations will be seriously considered by Government.

Welcoming New Colleagues to IPAV's Head Office

We are delighted to welcome Fiona Kennedy and Jakub Polanski to the team at IPAV's head office.

Fiona joined the team in August and will be assisting with events and members requirements. We are very happy to have Fiona's skills and expertise at this time of such growth in the Institute; fiona@ipav.ie

Jakub has newly joined the team and will be responsible for co-ordinating IPAV's PSRA and TEGOVA CPD events for both members and agents, as well as overseeing CPD compliance. Jakub has a professional background in events, a keen interest in the property industry and we look forward to working together on the many CPD events planned for the future; jakub@ipav.ie

Launching Sunday 12th Sept - Residential Property Price Barometer

IPAV's latest Residential Property Price Barometer, covering the first 6 months of 2021, will be launched this Sunday 12th September, exclusively in the Sunday Independent and from Monday, in the Local Ireland Grouping of regional newspapers. We encourage members to review the barometer findings in the papers, and it will also be live on IPAV's website from Sunday morning next for all members to examine. IPAV will email all members their own copy of the Barometer on Monday and it may be very surprising to members to see the different variations in prices in different locations. On behalf of IPAV, our CEO would again like to thank our 120 or so members that contribute twice yearly to our very important barometer that is now recognised as one of the best residential property results in the country.

The History of The Institute of Professional Auctioneers and Valuers 1971 to 2021

A million thanks to all who have contributed in any way to this wonderful production of IPAV's History 1971 to 2021. In celebration of IPAV's milestone 50th anniversary, a digital copy of The History of The Institute of Professional Auctioneers and Valuers 1971 to 2021 was emailed to all members on Monday 30th August and we sincerely hope you enjoy looking back over IPAV's history. Due to our sustainability policy, we are not sending a hardback copy out to all members, but asking members who would like to receive a complimentary hardback copy of the book, to please email fiona@ipav.ie and she will be delighted to post one to you. Additional copies, as long as stocks last, may be purchased at €40.00 each.

Official Book Launch Celebrating 50 Years of IPAV

Thank you to both Tom Donnelly, IPAV's 11th President and Tom Crosse, IPAV's 50th President who officially launched The History of The Institute of Professional Auctioneers and Valuers 1971 to 2021. It was a celebratory and poignant event, and we thank all the team who played their part, and to all IPAV members, council and presidents, past and present for your continued support. Thank you to the Castletroy Park Hotel, Limerick for their excellent service, and to Brian Dempsey, IPAV council member for the wonderful photos taken on the evening. Pictured below is Tom Crosse with 19 IPAV past presidents who were present on the evening; and IPAV members Aidan Heffernan, Patrick O'Gorman and James McDonnell who were presented with a diploma in recognition of joining IPAV in 1971.

TEGOVA Residential Valuer (TRV) Course - Final Call

This is a final call to IPAV members who are considering taking part in IPAV's upcoming Autumn TRV course, commencing Thursday 30th September. Course details, entry criteria, dates, cost and application forms are all available in Genevieve's email of 19th July. Subject to receipt of the necessary documentation, the last few places will be awarded on a first come basis.

Congratulations to IPAV's YPN Golf Classic Teams

IPAV's Young Professionals Network held their 5th annual Golf Classic on 13th August at Headfort Golf Club in Kells Co. Meath. It was a very successful event which was jointly sponsored by PINERGY and OFFR. 35 teams teed off on the day, making it the largest attendance to date. The winning team with a score of 74.8 were Patrick Davitt Jnr, Mark Whelehan and Finian Whelehan from Mullingar. The two nominated charities, the Alzheimer's Society and Breakthrough Cancer Research, both will receive a donation from funds raised on the day. Congratulations to all the winning teams & thanks to members for their support!
